

SCIENCE FILM SHOWCASE

SELECTED WINNERS FROM THE JACKSON HOLE SCIENCE MEDIA AWARDS

Harvard Museum of Natural History
February 13, 2013 7:00 – 9:00 pm

Introductions

Bob Hirshon
Program Director, Technology & Learning
Education and Human Resources, AAAS

Phil Puthumana
Program Manager
The Verizon Foundation

Jessica Weeman
Development Director
Jackson Hole Wildlife Film Festival

Films and Discussion

Wings of Life with Louis Schwartzberg

Produced by Blacklight Films and narrated by Meryl Streep, Wings of Life delves into the realm of flowers and their pollinators. A double winner at the Science Media Awards, for Best Visualization and Best Theatrical Program categories.

Grammar of Happiness with Daniel Everett

Is grammar derived from our DNA or our culture? Discover missionary-turned-linguist Daniel Everett's theory about the Piraha language - a theory that is sparking a war of words in academia. Winner of Best Human and Social Sciences Program. Produced by The Smithsonian Channel.

Fabric of the Cosmos with Joe McMaster and Melanie Wallace

Two episodes of this NOVA mini-series won awards this year, with What is Space? Winning for Best Physical Science Program and Quantum Leap winning for Best Writing.

Concorde: Flying Supersonic with Bob Van Der Linden

The story of the world's first and last supersonic passenger jet, exploring the defining moments in Concorde's history. From the Smithsonian Channel. Winner for Best Technological Sciences Program.

Bones of Turkana with Katie Carpenter and John Heminway

Richard Leakey — paleoanthropologist, conservationist, statesman, provocateur — is the subject of this hour-long special from National Geographic. A finalist in several categories and winner of the prize for Best Editing.

Please join us for a reception in the Harvard Museum of Natural History Galleries.

Special Thanks To

